

About Us

Kate Larson UXC, CSPO

Kate's passion is bringing software products to market that people love to use. Her experience spans product management, user experience research, project management, technical communication, and training across a variety of markets. In recent years, she's focused on partnering with companies to launch effective solutions in Education Technology.

For more information on Kate's background, see LinkedIn.

No grey